

In the sole interest of a more broad presentation of news and programming, I am very much against permitting media companies to own more outlets.

Even now, we are seeing media outlets completely dominated by their owner's viewpoints. This condition will only become more pronounced if the large conglomerates can add to their holdings.

This is not fair to the American citizen, who in theory, owns these same airwaves.